

LIFE AFTER HIGH SCHOOL

WE NEED YOUR HELP!

“Some students or young adults have significant support needs due to cognitive and/or physical challenges.

The Pathfinder Parent Center, the Anne Carlson Center and members of NDACF are creating a statewide resource with information on transition for students with significant support needs.

We are seeking photos, stories and videos that show what is possible. We need: Education & Life Long Learning, Financial & Future Planning, Friendship, Health & Wellness, Home, Recreation; Hobbies, Transportation, Work / Volunteer

Goal: By June 13, 2013, ND families of teens & young adults, ages 14 to 26, with significant support needs due to intellectual/physical challenges, will have a comprehensive web resource that supports informed decision making in planning for life after high school.

Purpose: To provide a web site with a wealth of video and photo based resources that will guide parents and educators in transition planning for youth with significant support needs.

Need: Most transition resources are designed for students with mild support needs. Families whose children have significant needs look at these resources and in their own community and ask: “Where is my child, in all of that?” “What will his or her future be ?”
